REGINA.

The first annual meeting of the Northwest Territories Dental Association took place at Regina on the 1st and 2nd of July, when the following officers were elected:—
Dr. W. D. Cowan of Regina, President; Dr.
L. D. Keown of Mooseomin, Vice-President; Dr. J. E. Guerin of Qu'Appelle Station, Secretary; Dr. C. B. Stovel of Prince Albert, Treasurer; Dr. P. E. Size of Calgary, Registrator. Before the termination of the meeting it was resolved that the thanks of the Dental Association of the Northwest Territories be tendered Mr. John Secord, M.L.A., for the able assistance rendered by him in securing the passage by the Legislature of the Ordinance to protect the Profession of dentistry in the Territories.

WHITEWOOD.

The Whitewood Farmers' Club gave their first annual picnic on Dominion Day, on Mr. Fowlers' farm. A large company assisted from the surrounding country and early to enjoy the festivities provided and early a report of the progress made by the association since its inception. After a sumptuous repast to which ample justice was done, a move was made to the large granary where simple accommodations were provided for the committee of which Wm. Nicholson was the moving spirit—for seating the assembly multitude. John Nelson was voted to the chair and he called on the President, J. E. Nicholson, for a speech. He dwelt on the benefits derived by farmers in co-operation and the great success the club had already attained and strongly urged them one and all to pull together for the common good. He said that similar clubs under the name of "Grangers" existed amongst the farmers in Ontario, and they had surpassed their expectations. Several interesting discussions had taken place during the past few months at their regular meetings, on dairying, potato cultivation, summer fallowing, and other kindred subjects, which must have been a great benefit to them. The club must give a brief account of their sales and purchases, and estimate of the saving in the later to the members at from 25 to 300 per cent, on the ruling price charged here.
Owing to their success two new clubs were being formed—one at Wood Lake and another north of Whitewood, affiliated to this club. Several new members having given in their names for enrolment the chairman declared the business part completed, whereupon the instrumentalists struck up a spirited air and the ladies and ladies trooped gaily away on the light fastidious low daisy eye. The children had raced, sung, and all declared they had a most enjoyable day. The vocal part of the entertainment was undertaken by Messrs.
Laurent, S. Bell, Morrison, Nelson, A. Bell, Mr. Fletcher gave an admirable rendition on the Northwest rebellion. The committee of ladies deserve great praise for their valuable aid to the success of the picnic.

EDMONTON.

From The Bulletin.
—The merchants of this district have formed themselves into an association with a view to limiting indiscriminate credit.

—The assessment of Poplar Lake public school district has been completed by J. A.
Gordon. The total assessment is about $44,000.

—W. Fielders has now three moose, he killed one and Mr. Zee has one in his farm.
East Edmonton. Two he purchased last fall from E. Taylor, of Lake Ste. Ann; and the third last week from Mr. Boushage of St. Albert. Mr. Boushage had a pair which he purchased last winter but one was killed to death by a trap this spring and so he sold the remaining one to Mr. Fielders. They are kept in a large fenced field and are very tractable, coming at a call of their owner and showing no desire to break out of the enclosure. They wintered well last season on hay and green oat straw. Mr. Fielders has had one of them latched to a skid and found it not so difficult to manage as an unbroken cow.

MEDICINE HAT.

—The Medicine Hat Times says: The action of the C. P. R. in placing freight cars along each side of their roadbed between here and Swift Current is worthy of praise, and shows that they are also in the territory own interest and that of the settlers. We understand that this experiment—for it is merely that—was decided on at the request of Sept. Stocked. If successful the company will probably place them along the whole of the prairie section of their line.
The C. P. R. and C. O. Co. have the contract for the whole of the work between here and Swift Current.

MELAN.

—A farmer in this vicinity was much blest with the success of 24 hours recently. His mare, failed, his cow calved, his cow dropped a lot of pigs, a brood of chickens were hatched out and his wife had twins. Who would not be a farmer?

Many of the eastern newspapers speak approvatory of the plan by the British govt. to the Hudson's Bay railway.

A VETERAN'S TESTIMONY.

Sir John Ross, one of England's be-known commanders at sea, has been a life long abstainer and he has found that the best antidote all exposures and in all climates.
"Travellers" who go a hundred miles from home, and meet some stimulant against "exhaustion" and "fatigue" ought to be interested in this statement, written by the bold old mariner nearly forty years ago.

He said:—Admiral Sir John Ross, writing from St. Lawrence, July, 1852, says:—"I went to Greenwich and was bound apprentice for four years, during which time I made three voyages to the West Indies, and three to the Baltic. I had, therefore, a good opportunity of observing the injurious effects of intemperate liquors in both climates. My first voyage was to Jamaica, where the captain and several of the crew died. Excepting that I never drank any spirits, I took no care of myself. I exposed myself to the burning sun, slept on deck in the dew, and ate fruit without feeling any bad effects. I soon lost my hat and shoes, and ran about bareheaded and barefooted, but I never tasted spirits, and so this is the only salutary remedy for ordinary good health I enjoyed. My next voyage was to St. Petersburg, where I spent the winter in like manner. I was running about bareheaded and barefooted on the ice, and I felt the cold very much. My next voyage was to the Bay of Honduras, and alternately to the Baltic. On the last voyage to Honduras, all the common sailors—twelve in number—died, and I was the only person that went out in the ship when home alive, which I attribute entirely to my abstaining from the use of spirituous liquors. I shall now say a few words on my voyage to the Arctic Regions, which occupied the space of four years, from April, 1839, to October, 1843.
I was twenty years older than any of the officers or crew, and thirty years older than all excepting three, yet I could stand the cold, and endure the fatigue better than any of them, which all made use of tobacco and spirits."

At Wapella on Tuesday last a curious freak of lightning was manifested. Stewart Lynes was driving a team of horses, close astern of which was a colt. A flash of lightning killed both horses of the team instantaneously, while the colt was entirely uninjured. Mr. Lynes was struck insensible, but speedily recovered.

Orders have been issued from headquarters in Toronto that every one who was a Conservative in the late provincial elections must be contested. The start was made yesterday, when protests were entered in Essex and North Renfrew. Algoma East, Windsor, and London. The Conservatives, Sir Edm. Hamilton and Esq. Elgin will be attended to later. The Conservative majorities in these constituencies run all the way from sixty to over 200.

Application will be made to parliament at the next session for an amendment to the act incorporating the Saskatchewan Railway & Mining company, providing for an extension of their line southwest from Dunsmuir, to the mouth of the Red River, either in range 12, 13 or 14, west of the 40th meridian, also a branch from Saskatoon in a northerly direction, crossing the North Saskatchewan river to Green Lake, Beaver river, and northwest to the mouth of the Red River.

Section 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 33, 34, 35, and 36, in Township 18, Range 12; Section 1, 2, 3, 4, and fractional Sections 8, 9, 11, and 12, in Township 19, A, Range 12; and Section 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, and 13, in Township 19, Range 12, all West of the 2nd Meridian, have been erected into a School District under the provisions of the School Ordinance, to be known under the corporate name of "The New Valley Public School District, No. 101, of the North-West Territories."

The last issue of the Dominion Illustrated is an illustration of the force of example. The previous number was devoted to Victoria, B. C. Of course, long before its appearance, the fact that it was due was well known in the North-West. And not without result, evidently. Calgary has quickly followed suite—the present number being almost wholly given up to that threefold, society, coffee, factory, and candi-dism. Would hardly, perhaps, expect that so much be said about a place as young; but, a glance at the pages of Calgary number of the Dominion Illustrated will convince the most incredulous that Alberta and its fair metropolitan comprise many features of rare interest in scenery, resources, population and general progress and that even the best informed will find in this rich mine, the means of adding considerably to their store of knowledge. The illustrations (which are excellent) and the accompanying letter press are of historic value and are well worthy of preservation. (Calgary Dominion Illustrated, 73-81, James St. Montreal.)

By the dissolution of the suit entered to test the constitutionality of the Manitoba School Act, the case reverts to the Dominion authorities for their decision. It is now a question of "shall" or "shall not." The dissolution does not affect the question at issue in any respect. It was determined upon because the suit was a friendly case. Mr. Justice Ross said:—"I find it difficult to resist the conclusion that there is no real dispute between the plaintiff and the defendant, and that the suit is a friendly one, instituted only for the purpose of trying to obtain an opinion from the court on the constitutional question raised by the plaintiff. No greater or more important question than this has yet presented itself before this court, and I need not point out how unsatisfactory and inconclusive it would be that such a question should be decided in a suit in which the good faith and sincerity of the parties are open to question, and in the absence of parties who are materially and directly interested in the decision." The Court authorities probably thought that the Provincial Government would bring to the defence of the measure, which expectation they were disappointed.

Day and Knight in the Same Boat.

Out on the north side lives a friend of mine named Day. He has a low fat, and in the one above his liver a gentleman named Knight. The fact that there were Day and (Knight) in the same boat never struck my friend Day. He knew Knight, who was connected with some house furnace and stove company, but neither had indulged in any punning on the contrasting names. The other day Mr. Day's door bell rang, and Mr.
Day, who happened to be at home, responded in person. He found a gentleman on the doorstep. The gentleman said:
"Is this Mr. Knight?"
"No, sir; this is Mr. Day."

The gentleman smiled significantly, as who should say: "Ah, very good; very good.
Really very witty; quite a bon mot." Then he pulled from his pocket some papers and began to talk to Mr. Day about furnaces and stoves, and improvements, and extras, and a lot of other things, including profits and percentages. He rattled on so fast that before Mr. Day could pull him up he had passed the half mile pole. Then he said:
"I don't know anything about all this.
What does it mean?"
"You're Knight, aren't you?"
"No, Day."
"Oh, come," said the visitor, "is that a joke? Because if it is I've laughed at it a hundred times, and it won't hurt you. I joke about it," replied Mr. Day. "It goes."

"Your name Day?"
"Sure."
"Well, where's Knight?"
"Upstairs. Ring your bell."
"Why didn't you say so before?" snapped the visitor, as he yanked the bell almost out by the roots.
"You didn't ask me," said Mr. Day. Then he went indoors and smiled.—Chicago Mail.

Too Much "Fertigheit" for Him.
Senator Colquhitt, of Georgia, delights in telling a story of his efforts at missionary work among the Afro-Americans in the vicinity of his home. He selected as a specimen text "Uncle Gabe," a former slave, who had learned to read in a very crude way, and to whom he had offered $5 if he would read the Bible through to the end. Gabe accepted the offer, and took away with him a brand new Bible, and began his work with the Scriptures. Two weeks later Gabe returned, Bible in hand.

"Well, Uncle Gabe, how did you like the book?" Gabe hesitated to reply and was pressed further.

"Well, Marso Colquhitt, I talls you how it is.
I don't like the book none."

"Explain yourself. I don't catch your meaning," said the senator. "What part of the Bible did you read, Gabe?"

"I rants, sah, until I gits to whar Abraham fergits Isaac, and Isaac fergits Jacob, and Jacob, he fergits Joseph, and then I reads no more. Ders is too much fergiting, sah, to suit me."—New York Tribune.

A Gory Mishap.
Mrs. Moscové—Pur sure I heard a pistol shot, and my husband appears—bel-tup! our ruder! positively faints!

Mr. Moscové—Don't carry on so, Esma! I was trying your new tomato ketchup, and a bottle burst in my face.—Judge.

A Trifle Discouraged.
Captain Underboud, to passenger—Are you feeling any better today, sir?
Passenger discouraged—No; worse, if anything.

Captain—Oh, you'll be all right in a day or two, so don't give up the ship.

Passenger—No; I'll hold on to the ship if I can, but, by thunder, captain, I've given up about everything else!—The Epoch.

Retaliation Demanded.
Paterfamilias—Did my boy buy this white-tie of you or did you give it to him?
Clothing Dealer—I gave it to him, sir.

Paterfamilias—As an advertisement, I suppose. In order to increase your trade!

Clothing Dealer cheerfully—Yes sir.

Paterfamilias—Very well. I shall never trade with you again.—Lowell Citizen.

This World Is Not a Bleeding Show.
The old adage, "Early to bed and early to rise, makes man healthy, wealthy and wise," is a contemptible fraud. We have followed its precepts faithfully for thirty years, and where are we today? We are not wealthy at all, well, we are not worse off, and we do not know very much any way.—Lowell Citizen.

The Cologne Gazette relates that when the sultan offered Kaiser William a cigarette from his own pocket, the latter took it and put it in his pocket, saying he would present it always as a souvenir, and a hint begged for another to smoke. The sultan "was deeply moved" by this grand international episode.

The queen of Italy recently found a streak of ugly and unbecoming green color on her favorite lap dog, and on inquiry found that King Humbert, for whom she had bought the dog from Paris a little of hair dye which she desired him to use on his gray mustache, and sensibly concluded to have it tried on the dog.

As "violets packed will never grow again," so a good name once lost we never can regain. An article which after extended trial won great fame and as time rolls on by good deeds still increases, it is Barcock Blood BUT the best cure for dyspepsia and all blood diseases.

The Two Bismarcks

The Hungarian artist Koppay, most of whose models are to be found in the "Album of Gotha," has ventured on the task of painting the celebrated prince. Koppay has had opportunity of observing Prince Bismarck at home in his own family circle, and what he has produced is, in the best sense of the word, a family picture. He does not present the chancellor in uniform or in a court dress, before parliament or in the congress. He shows us the great man in a plain black coat, leaning slightly with the left hand on a chair, while extending the right to his son, Count Herbert, who is looking at him with admiration and filial affection.

The face of the prince is turned full on the spectator, a mild seriousness is expressed by the features, which display neither anger resulting from parliamentary friction, nor delight in battling against parliamentary factions. Above the large body rises a head that might almost be called elegant—proportionally which are all the more striking from the plain black costume, in which the public is so little accustomed to see him, but which are none the less caught from the life.

Persons who have had an opportunity to see the prince in his family circle assure us that the portrait reflects "Bismarck at home" with surprising truthfulness. The portrait of the son, whom we see in profile, is a no less masterly production. He also wears a black frock coat, and seems to have laid aside all official dignity along with his uniform.

The picture (a knee piece) is entitled "The Two Bismarcks." In the studio of Gustav Schauer a capital photographic copy of the painting has been produced. The reproductions will probably soon become a chief attraction in the windows of the picture dealers, and will be sure to find numerous purchasers.—London Standard.

The Phonograph

It is alleged by The London Truth that a machine has been patented in Great Britain and will shortly be made known to the public that promises to make ducks and drakes of typewriters, phonographs, graphophones and all previous inventions. The inventor of this mechanical prodigy has just brought it over from America, and its existence for the present is practically a secret.

The new invention, which is named the "phonograph," is about the size of a large cigar box, and weighs five and a half pounds. There are two immense advantages possessed by the "phonograph." First, it will reproduce sound with perfect accuracy upon a flat surface, and, second, it can be produced and sold for $5.

The Edison phonograph has this disadvantage as a means of conducting correspondence. In Edison's invention the impression of the words spoken into it is made upon a cylinder, which is inconvenient to read through the post. In the "phonograph" the impression is made upon a flat piece of paper, which can be doubled up and sent through the post like an ordinary letter in an ordinary envelope—the paper, of course, having to be specially prepared for the purpose.

The very highest hopes are entertained as to the universal success of the phonograph, full descriptions of which will, no doubt, shortly appear in the technical journals. Its prospects may, in fact, be gauged when it is remembered that in the United States no less than $30,000,000 are invested in the present phonographs and graphophones. One hundred thousand of these machines are already in use, and they are rented out for an annual payment of $10 each.

A Valuable Little Hill

There is a little hill in Queensland, only a few hundred feet high, which is attracting deserved notice, because it has made Queensland the greatest gold producing colony in Australia. It was not known until five years ago that Mount Morgan, as it is called, was worth anything, but it would take millions of money to buy it now. The original stock of the company, organized to dig out the inside of Mount Morgan, is now worth, at the market price, about $5,000,000, and the mine is supposed to be the richest in the world.

The strangest thing about Mount Morgan is that it was evidently made by geysers and hot springs, like those in the Yellowstone park, a formation that has not hitherto been regarded as valuable. But there is more gold distributed through this rocky mass to the square yard than is being dug out anywhere else; and the beauty of it is the gold increases in quantity the deeper the miners go, and not the other way. This fabulous wealth will be known. This little hill is now yielding an average of $180,000 of pure gold a week. Mr. Lunnholz, well known for his travels among the cannibals of Australia, says a friend who paid $5,000 for one share of stock now enjoys an income from the mine of $10,000 a year. But the luckiest fellows are those who got in on the ground floor and have been made very wealthy by their fortunate strike.—New York Sun.

Premier Crisp is 70, and his king, Humbert, is 45; Bismarck is 75, and his emperor, William, is 50. Dutch King Willem is the oldest, and the Spanish lady, Alfonso, the youngest of Europe's crown-wearers, and both are in the hands of guardians.

Count Herbert Bismarck, during his sojourn in the Orient, learned a new proverb, which he repeated in a recent speech: "There are three things with which no man should play: the fire, the knife, and the woman; for the first will burn him, the second will cut him, and the last will love him."

—Oman Digna and his forces are probably being driven northward from Tokar by famine, which has prevailed throughout the Sudan for nearly two years. Had their march any purely military purpose it would be directed eastward toward Soudan. If the force enters the Sudan through the country of the Arab's hostile to the Mahdi, which lies between them and Egypt proper, they may possibly give Egypt a good deal of trouble. The famine-stricken and still restless condition of the Sudan is a menace to Egypt, and will prevent the immediate withdrawal of the British from the country. The French may claim as much as they please, but the march of events has made it impossible for England to do otherwise than she has done if Egypt is to be preserved from anarchy.
